ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A tidal generator system is provided that includes a containment tank, and a ring mechanism provided about the containment tank to rise and fall based on tidal actions. A valve mechanism allows a liquid to pass into the containment tank. Additionally, a turbine/generator system generates electrical energy based on the liquid passing through the valve mechanism.